Finance and Juvenile Justice Committees

Regarding the New York City

Executive Budget for FY10

May 18, 2009

Good afternoon. My name is Ailin Chen and I am the Senior Policy Associate for Education, Juvenile Justice and Youth Services for Committee for Children of New York (CCC). CCC is a 65- year old privately supported, independent, multi-issue child advocacy organization. CCC does not accept or receive public resources nor do we provide direct service or represent a sector or workforce; rather for 65 years we have undertaken public policy research, community education and advocacy activities to ensure New York City's children are healthy, housed, educated and safe. I would like to thank Chairman Weprin, and Chairman Gonzalez and the members of the Council Finance and Juvenile Justice Committees for this opportunity to testify on the Mayor's Executive Budget for City Fiscal Year 2010.

While we appreciate the severity of the budget crisis and are grateful for the federal stimulus funding, we do not believe that the Executive Budget goes far enough to protect New York City's children from shouldering a disproportionate burden of the economic downturn. During economic downturns, like the unprecedented one we are in the midst of, it is more important than ever that the core services for children and families be protected and supported.

Youth services, child abuse prevention services, child protection, foster care, after school programs, child care, and children's health and mental health services are, and will continue to be, critical to promoting the well-being of children and their families.

To protect children in this budget, CCC urges the City Council and the Mayor to consider additional revenue options, particularly those that are the least regressive. Without much needed revenue, over $108 million in troublesome reductions to essential services may stand, jeopardizing child safety and threatening child well-being.

While CCC is relieved that the Executive Budget proposes no new child welfare reductions and partially closes the child care budget gap, we remain concerned that budget reductions initially proposed in January, to ACS in particular, still stand. These reductions threaten the ability of community based preventive service agencies to maintain lower caseloads and meet the needs of at-risk families. They also hinder the capacity of foster care agencies to serve children in their care and expedite permanency for these children and their families. And they reduce ACS staff almost 1000.

CCC is also very concerned about proposed budget reductions to child health clinics and school based dental clinics. Notably the structural deficit faced by HHC and created by the State's reduction in Medicaid reimbursement, is not recognized in the Executive Budget but will also result in the elimination of community health clinics that serve children, school based mental health programs and adolescent day treatment programs. In short, basic primary health care services to for the city's children are threatened with elimination.

Finally, we remain concerned that reductions to youth services such as after school programs and summer youth employment, will result in thousands of children lacking access to needed constructive activities after school and during the summer months.

While NYC must show restraint in its expenditures, it is paramount that the proposed reductions that would weaken an already fragile social infrastructure, cause unimaginable strain on the neediest children, and jeopardize the safety and well-being of children, be reconsidered. CCC has identified over $108 million in city budget reductions to children and family services that we believe are of great concern. These are detailed in the chart attached to our testimony.

Because the city's fiscal situation is so dire, we were urge the City Council and the Mayor to explore all additional revenue options including but not limited to temporarily rescinding property tax exemptions on private colleges and universities, rescinding the property tax exemption on Madison Square Garden, altering pilot property tax agreements on stadiums, and weighing progressive local income tax increases.

Turning specifically to the Department of Juvenile Justice, there are two service cuts in particular for youth in detention that are of great concern.

First, we ask that the Council oppose the proposed elimination of discharge planning unit. As we testified at the Preliminary Budget hearing, a proposal to eliminate the discharge planning unit is short-sighted particularly when DJJ reports a 47.5% readmission rate. These statistics demonstrate a need for more comprehensive discharge planning services - not less. DJJ's proposal to relinquish budgeted positions and reassign discharge planners to existing case management units will make it even more difficult to ensure that youth connect with and engage in positive neighborhood-based services that will help to keep them out of detention in the long-term.

Second, CCC urges the Council to oppose the proposed cut to dental services for youth in detention and restore $51,000 in order to ensure that youth continue to receive dental care within 20 days of admission and not 60 days as proposed in the Executive Budget. Because the average length of stay for youth in DJJ detention is 28 days, DJJ's proposal would result in some youth being denied dental care altogether while in detention. Timely access to dental care while in detention is essential and must be preserved because for many of these youth, it is the first time that they have received consistent health care.

Finally, CCC supports the proposal to reduce certified capacity at Bridges Residential Center from 95 beds to 71 beds. However, we were disappointed to see that the Executive Budget did not include further plans to address the need to reduce the City's reliance on secure detention and to renew its commitment to close Bridges Residential Center. To that end, we urge the Council to use its oversight capacity to monitor secure detention population trends and utilization rates. Additionally, with more than half of the young people in DJJ secure detention remanded for misdemeanor charges, we ask the Council to also monitor utilization rates for alternative-to-detention programs and other community-based programs that could better serve youth and reduce the City's reliance on secure detention.

When the City's FY 2010 Budget is adopted, the Mayor and City Council must make certain that the City is able to address the increased needs of children during this economic crisis.

Thank you for this opportunity to testify.
